

The Future in the Passive Voice

The Future with Will

Object + will (not) be + past participle + subject.

Examples:

Our eco-friendly products will be manufactured in the UK.

Our products won't be sold until they undergo a strict product safety evaluation.

The Future with Going to Object + is/are going to be + past participle + subject.

Examples:

Employees are going to be asked to participate in professional development programs.

IT requests aren't going to be reviewed on Mondays.

Questions in the passive voice

WHAT

What will be expected of employees with these new policies?

WHERE

Where are products going to be delivered?

WHEN

When will staff be required to submit vacation time?

WHY

Why will clients be asked to complete a satisfaction survey?

HOW

How is our work going to be affected by the new changes?

Practice assignment:

- Think of a change you think should happen in your company. Write questions you think the staff would ask if the change were proposed. Use the future forms in the passive voice.
- Think about projects or tasks you are currently working on at work. Describe the impact your work will have on the company. Use the future forms in the passive voice.

the TEFL lab.

Find the full lesson & other resources at www.TheTEFLLab.com